

Progress report

BEME review: What is the evidence regarding the utility of multiple mini-interviews for selection to undergraduate health courses?

Review group: Eliot L Rees, Medical Student, School of Medicine, Keele University, UK
Ashley Hawarden, Medical Student, School of Medicine, Keele University, UK
Dr Gordon Dent, Director of Admissions, School of Medicine, Keele University, UK
Dr David Mazzocchi-Jones, Lecturer in Neuroscience, School of Life Sciences, Keele University, UK. Honorary Clinical Lecturer, Graduate School of Medicine, University of Wollongong, NSW, Australia
Prof Richard Hays, Dean of Faculty of Health Sciences & Medicine, Bond University, Australia
Dr Joanna Bates, Director, Centre for Health Education Scholarship, Faculty of Medicine, University of British Columbia, Vancouver, Canada
Prof Andrew Hassell, Director of Undergraduate Programmes, School of Medicine, Keele University, UK

Review progress: The electronic and reference searches have been completed.
The coding sheet has been refined through coding of 3 articles by the group at Keele.
Citations and abstracts (and where necessary, full papers) have been screened. At present 44 papers are included.
An updated coding sheet has been produced and tested on 2 articles by all review group members.
Preliminary results from the review are to be presented during short communications at the AMEE conference in Prague August 2013.
The pilot study is being written ready for submission to BEME.

Anticipated date of completion: 01/03/2014
